

Outdoor Living Designed for Scotland

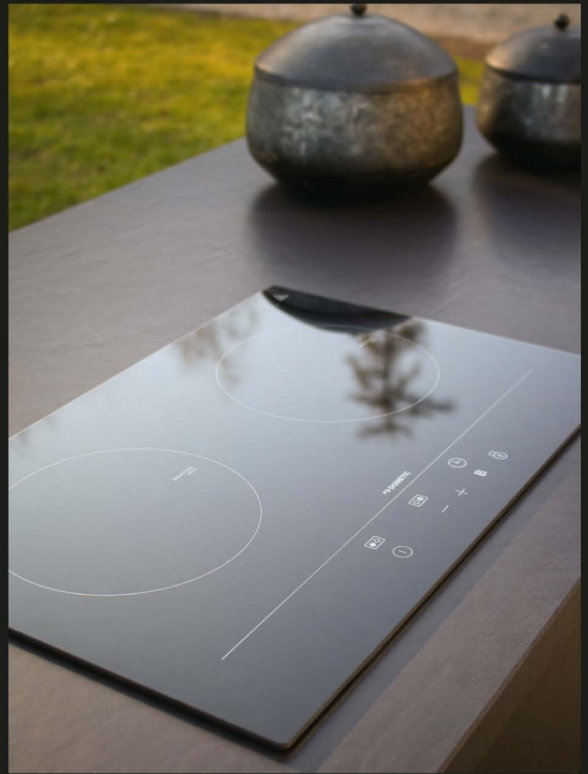

About Us

For over 70 years, Cubic has crafted bespoke outdoor kitchens defined by precision and craftsmanship. In partnership with Wallace Collective, we bring German engineering and Scottish design together to create kitchens that are both beautiful and built to last.

Our shared philosophy: spaces should feel effortless - designed to live beautifully, inside and out.

The Design Process

From concept to completion - a seamless collaboration.

Every project begins with a conversation.

We take time to understand how you live - how you cook, gather, and spend time outdoors. From there, our design journey unfolds with Cubic Kitchens and Wallace Collective, blending precision and creativity.

Appliances & Performance

Every Cubic kitchen designed in collaboration with Wallace Collective is elevated by carefully selected appliances, chosen not only for performance but for their integration into the overall aesthetic.

We partner with leading brands, including Beefeater, Flamkraft, and OFYR, to offer seamless functionality and refined design.

Each appliance is built to perform outdoors, engineered for durability, and styled to complement the materials and finishes of the kitchen.

From statement grills and pizza ovens to refrigeration and integrated taps, every feature is considered, concealed, and crafted to enhance both form and function.

The result is an outdoor space that feels as effortless as it looks – a kitchen that performs beautifully, season after season.

1. Discovery & Consultation

It starts with understanding.

We meet to explore your space, needs, and design vision. Whether it's an outdoor kitchen, pergola, or complete living environment, this stage defines how your space will feel – refined, functional, and uniquely yours.

2. Concept Design

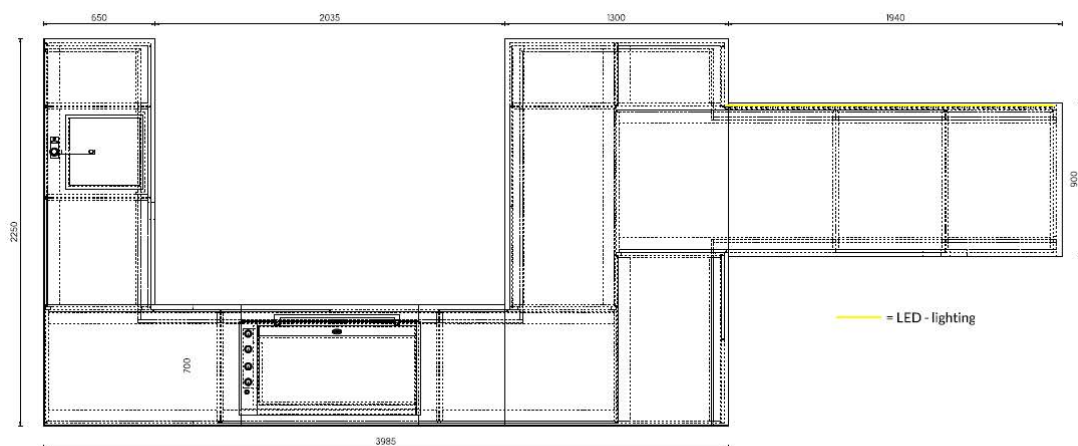

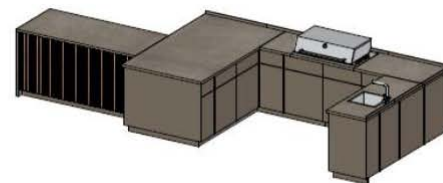

Our design teams collaborate to craft a cohesive vision - harmonising materials, finishes, and architectural lines between the indoor kitchen and outdoor environment.

Using advanced 3D design tools, we visualise the layout, flow, and detailing to bring the concept to life before production begins.

4. Production & Craftsmanship

Each Cubic kitchen is made to measure in Germany, using advanced engineered materials and bespoke finishes. Meanwhile, Wallace Collective prepares your site and complements the build with curated elements – stone, planting, and architectural detailing.

5. Installation & Handover

Our teams coordinate every stage on-site, ensuring a flawless fit and finish. From structural alignment to final detailing, every element is installed with care and integrity. The result is a space that feels naturally connected, durable and ready for everyday living.

6. Aftercare & Longevity

Design doesn't end at completion.

We offer ongoing support and maintenance guidance to ensure your outdoor kitchen and surrounding environment age beautifully - maintaining the same elegance and performance for years to come.
